LAMPUNG

Located at the southern tip of Sumatra, 110 km from Bandarlampung, the Way Kambas National Park (WKNP) is one of the oldest reserves in Indonesia. It occupies 1,300 sq km of coastal lowland forest around the Way Kambas River on the east coast of the province of Lampung. WKNP is closely associated with elephants, since aside from being a sanctuary for these gentle giants, the national park is also known as their training ground. Also operating in the park is the Sumatra Rhino Sanctuary (SRS), where rhinos, formerly held in captivity are introduced to natural surroundings in the hope of successful breedings.

"WAY KAMBAS"

Located around 20 kilometres from the city of Bandar Lampung make this beach as the main tourist attraction in Lampung. White sand beach is located in the village of Tarahan, Lampung Selatan. It can be reached by driving about 30 minutes.

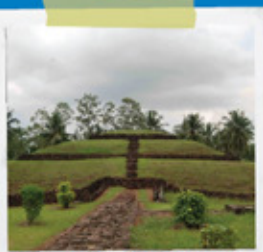

"PANTAI PASIR PUTIH"

"PULAU KUBUR"

Located in Kecamatan Teluk Betung Barat, Pulau Kubur can be reached approximately 20 to 30 minutes from the Pulau Pasaran. The island has an area about 5 acres and very natural, ranging from white sand and clean sea water as crystal and seeming to give you an idea that the island is still a Virgin. The island is one of a favorite destination in Lampung

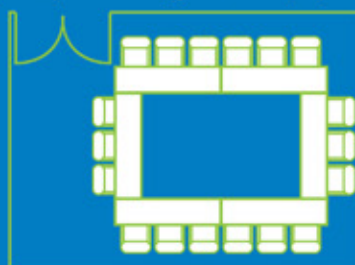

"PUGUNG RAHARJO"

Pugung Raharjo is an archaeological site located approximately 50 km from the provincial capital, Bandar Lampung. The site boasts substantial megalithic and prehistoric remains dating from the 12th to 16th century AD. Pugung Raharjo was occupied from the 12th to 16th century. Based on research, the area was strongly under the influence of the Palembang-based Sriwijaya Empire. Finds of beads and Chinese porcelain indicate that the people of the area were also linked to international trade networks which visited the nearby Sunda Strait
